Course Description

Risk management is the process of identifying, assessing, and controlling threats of liability to a law enforcement organization. This presentation will identify and discuss specific areas of potential liability for law enforcement agencies. It will then illustrate and discuss ways of assessing these threats to determine the best course of action that a Law Enforcement Agency can take to recognize, avoid, or respond to these situations. Finally, methods of controlling these potential threats of liability will be analyzed. Both case law and statutory law will be analyzed. The Illinois Tort Immunity Act will be illustrated and discussed to analyze how Illinois law handles risks of liability to law enforcement agencies. Additionally, federal civil rights actions will be analyzed to illustrate the impact of a Federal Civil Rights action against law enforcement agencies.
