- Complacency Concerns

People are human and make errors on occasion. In Law Enforcement, errors can have dire consequences. This course was developed to renew awareness of investigators of the common and sometimes, not so common pitfalls that can happen during an investigation. A list was compiled by investigators, prosecutors, defense attorneys and judges of errors and is presented in a countdown manner with discussion on the topics.

This course was designed by numerous instructors to identify the most common failures in criminal investigations. This course was built based on interviews and feedback with hundreds of criminal investigators from across the United States and Canada. Investigators are human and make unintentional errors. This course stresses the importance of correcting the errors.
